CLEVELAND DRAWS FIRST BLOOD IN THE WORLD SERIES

core Three Runs in First Three Innings, Third Tally Coming in That Frame.

COVELESKIE IS A PUZZLE

Dodgers Unable to Hit His Offerings For Any Safetier Field Is Jammed With Crowd of 25,000 Fans; Many Had Been in Line Since Sunrise.

By Associated Press.

EBBETS FIELD, BROOKLYN, N. Y., Oct. 5.—Cleveland drew first blood in the opening game of the world series today and by the end of the third inning had scored three runs to none by the National League champion. Coveleskie was on the mound for the Indians and the Dodgers could not find his offerings with any success. Cleveland's third run was made in the third inning.

EBBETS FIELD, BROOKLYN, Oct. 5.—Some 25,000 fans, the edge of whose enthusiasm was no doubt dulled by the "Whitesox baseball scandal," filled all stands in Ebbets Field today and saw the Cleveland, pennant winners of the American league, and Brooklyn, champion of the National league, battle in the first of this year's series.

All seats were sold when the players came on the field, and hundreds, many of whom had been in line since sunrise to buy seats on the unreserved sections, were turned away.

"I have a fine team eager to win and I believe it will," said Manager Wilbert Robinson of the Brooklyn in the club house before the game. "I am not underrating the Cleveland and will agree that we are in for a hard fight."

The Cleveland did not get to town until a few hours before the game, thereby upsetting all baseball practice.

"I have always played on diamonds of the same dimensions," said Tris Speaker, "and for purposes of this series we are assuming the distance is 90 feet between all bases on Colonial Ebbets' field." We expect to win. What more can I say?"

Colonel Ebbs, owner of the Brooklyn club, tipped over another precedent by not having a brass band for the delegation of the early comers. The colonel said any available space in the party should be given to the fans. Accordingly spectators musically inclined whistled popular airs and rang cowbells while others declared a world series without a brass band was another baseball scandal.

A superb day for baseball followed fast on a night of wretched promise. The weather cleared early and a warm sun and brisk breeze dried out the moisture in the playing field made sodden by the night's thunderstorm. Groundkeepers had the infield in fine shape by noon and the players reported that grounders came true.

The unreserved stands were not opened until after 12 o'clock, and were quickly filled by persons who stood single file in long serpentine lines about the park. Those who could not get into the park flocked onto a high clay bank known as Crow Hill that partly overlooked the playing field and watched the game from there.

BORAH FOR HARDING

"Want to See You Win, and League Defeated," Senator Hays.

By Associated Press.

MARION, O., Oct. 5.—In answer to widely published reports that Senator Borah, a leader of the treaty irreconcilables, soon would quit the Republican campaign, Senator Harding's headquarters here made public a telegram in which Mr. Borah declared he would continue to work for Republican success.

The message addressed to Senator Harding was as follows:

"In view of reports I wish you to know my opinion in the future will be along the same lines as at Dayton and in the Senate. I want to see you win and I want to see the league scheme defeated. In my own way, I shall devote my time to the achievement of both propositions."

JUDGE BEACOM TALKS TO WOMEN ON CONSTITUTION

Westmoreland Jurist Speaker at Opening of Culture Club Season.

GUARD RIGHTS, HIS ADVICE

Greetings Are Extended to Members and Visitors by Mrs. W. O. Schoenover, the New President; Report Made on Playground by Mrs. Francis

President Judge James S. Beacom of the Westmoreland county courts delivered the principal address at the opening meeting of the Woman's playground club for the current season yesterday afternoon in the Baltimore & Ohio Y. M. C. A. auditorium. About 800 men, members and friends of the club, attended and were greatly impressed with Judge Beacom's talk which was along the line of the Constitution of the United States. He interestingly compared ours with governments of other countries. In speaking of the rights women now have he urged them to support the constitution and not to allow too many changes to be made in it.

Mrs. W. O. Schoonover, the newly elected president of the club, gave a brief but interesting talk on "Americanization." A pleasing musical program, including two piano duets by Miss Pearl Keck and Mrs. Harry Williams and a vocal solo by Mrs. Elizabeth Anderson, Morton, was rendered.

Mrs. T. R. Francis gave an interesting report of the children's playground conducted during the summer by the club. A motion was passed to place scales for the measuring and weighing of the children. In both the public and parochial schools, it desired by the heads of the schools. A resolution to contribute $125 endowment to the Silver Jubilee anniversary of the State Federation of Women to be held October 11, 12, 13 and 14 in Harrisburg was passed. Mrs. J. J. Thompson expects to represent the local club, and possibly the national organization in a strange ball yard competition.

"I have always played on diamonds of the same dimensions," said Tris Speaker, "and for purposes of this series we are assuming the distance is 90 feet between all bases on Colonial Ebbets' field." We expect to win. What more can I say?"

Coal Removed, Town Well at Smithfield and Others Go Dry

Special to The Courier.
SMITHFIELD, Oct. 5.—The water supply on the hill section of Smithfield is becoming a serious problem, even for domestic purposes. The main supply, coming in as it does from dug wells, these are failing, by reason of the removal of coal.

The town well, from which many residents draw their supply, has gone dry. Never before in the history of the town did this well fail.

Springs and wells are reported to be going dry in various sections of the recently developed coal fields and the failure of the supply is attributed to the coal removal.

DEMOCRATIC SCORE IS NOW TWO HEARTS TO A SINGLE SOUL.

Special to The Courier.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 5.—Current literature on hearts, souls and the like received a valuable contribution today. "Breaking the heart of the world" became famous after Woodrow Wilson uttered it; William J. Bryan has his "heart in the grave" because James M. Cox was nominated and no dry plunk went into the San Francisco platform. Today Governor Cox wired to Washington that "the issue has taken hold of my soul."

The score is now two hearts to one soul.

Special to The Courier.

SMITHFIELD, Oct. 5.—While in Morgantown, W. Va., W. M. Mayfield spent a night with Hannah Hunter, who is one of the oldest residents of the town, being past 90. Spry as a cricket he almost ran the legs off Mr. Mayfield, taking him around over the hills and showing him the sights of the university town.

Though a Democrat, Mr. Hunter is a subscriber to the National Republic, published in Washington. Giving Mr. Mayfield a copy of the paper Mr. Hunter told him to go home and read it, warning him if he ever had voted for the Democratic ticket never to do so again.

STATE-WIDE DEMAND FOR ELECTION FULL REPUBLICAN TICKET

Including Congressmen As Well As Harding and Coolidge.

CONDITIONS AUSPICIOUS

For Unprecedented Victory; Chairman Crow Aims to Make Pennsylvania Banner Republican State in U. S.; Getting Out Vote All Needed.

Special to The Courier.

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 5.—With only four weeks left until the election, Republican county chairmen in Pennsylvania, with their county organizations, are concentrating their efforts to roll up a record-breaking majority in the Keystone state for the Republican ticket. Reports coming to the headquarters of the Republican state committee indicate that everywhere in Pennsylvania there is a demand for the election of Harding and Coolidge and a Republican Congress.

The departure this afternoon of Rev. G. L. C. Richardson, pastor of the First Methodist Episcopal church, to attend the 97th annual session of the Plateau Conference, which convenes in the Franklin street church, Johnstown, tomorrow morning at 9 o'clock, seems to call to mind several interesting matters in connection with Rev. Richardson's service with the local congregation.

He enjoys the unique distinction of having served the longest pastorate of any minister of this church, now over 100 years old. In the earlier years of Methodism pastores were limited to one year. This term of service was later extended to three and still later to five years. About 20 years ago the restriction as to length of pastorate was removed but changes continued for a time to be made about as frequently as before.

At the expiration of each of the periods for which Rev. Richardson has been assigned to the Connellsville church, since he first came here in 1913, he has been returned at the request of the official board. Near the completion of his six-year term the board has again unanimously joined in asking the conference to return him for another year.

During Rev. Richardson's pastorate the church has made marked progress in its several departments and its resources have largely gained. The membership has increased and the realty acquired for church purposes has doubled the value of the property owned by the church.

Greensburg, Oct. 5.—Harmon M. Kephart, treasurer of Pennsylvania, a local taxi and a West Penn street car indulged in a furious race in Greensburg and adjoining boroughs to the south of town Sunday afternoon.

Mr. Kephart, before he became a leader in the "Republican" politics of Pennsylvania, was a railroad engineer.

Colonel's two negro companions in crime, John T. Gater and John Connor, were a week ago released from jail and ordered by the court to leave the state and never return. Being assured that if they return and are apprehended they will be given the limit of the law.

Sentences followed.

Colonel's two negro companions in crime, John T. Gater and John Connor, were a week ago released from jail and ordered by the court to leave the state and never return. Being assured that if they return and are apprehended they will be given the limit of the law.

The offering for benevolence were $1,100 the first year after Rev. Richardson assumed charge. Last year the amount for this purpose was increased to $6,500 and for the coming year will reach $7,000. The contributions for all purposes passing through the various treasuries of the church and its societies this year will aggregate $30,000.

Throughout his pastorate Rev. Richardson's preaching has been earnest and evangelistic in character. He has interested himself actively in public and philanthropic enterprises; has served in important capacities in local affairs and as a member of the Ministerial Association has been an active worker and has cooperated with the pastors of other denominations in all movements designed for the uplift of the community.

With this new departure in conducting a presidential and congressional campaign in Pennsylvania, the state committee is looking forward to unprecedented results. It is but natural that when the entire responsibility for the results on election day are entrusted to a county chairman and his committee that the chairman will try to outdo themselves in rolling up as big majorities as possible.

Women voters will be the chief aid to the county which wins the state committee pennant. The interest being taken by the women of Pennsylvania in the election of the Republican ticket, so soon after their enfranchisement by the ratification of the suffrage amendment is remarkable.

Never in the state's history have conditions been more auspicious for a great Republican majority. Every element in the party is solidified under the Harding and Coolidge banner, while the Democrats are disorganized with their leaders helplessly groping about to find some way of making a "good showing." Pennsylvania this year has the opportunity of being the banner Republican state in the United States, and it is with this aim that State Chairman Crow and his assistants are working.

At the state headquarters, there is every reason to believe that Pennsylvania for the first time in many years will send to Congress a solid delegation of 36 Republican congressmen.

There are now seven Democrats sitting in the House of Representatives from this state, but it is quite evident from reports reaching here from those so-called Democratic districts, that the people in these districts are sick and tired of the extravagant mismanagement of the government affairs at Washington during the Wilson regime that these Democrats will be replaced with Republicans.

While it is certain that the Republican ticket will easily carry the state, there should be no let-up in the efforts to get out the vote and make Pennsylvania's majority the largest of any state in the union.

RED CROSS ROLL CALL IN FAYETTE COUNTY SET FOR NOV. 11-25

Effort Will Be Made to Retain Entire Present Membership and Add New Ones.

Intent on excelling over the "condemned anticipations" of its most enthusiastic members and adhering at the same time to an avowed plan of renewing, if possible, every one of its 26,000 members and then adding as many more new ones as possible, extensive plans are already on foot for the vigorous and intensive roll call of the American Red Cross. The roll call dates have been determined as November 11-25 inclusive.

A meeting of the executive board will be held in the very near future when members of the organization will formulate a detailed working plan consistent with the general schedule that is worked out for the organization as a national body.

Garland "Hot Blast" Coal Heaters
Make Use of Every Heat Unit in the Coal

The first breath of winter brings forcibly to your attention the need of coal heaters. And of course, you want a heater which will give you maximum heat with a minimum amount of coal. Such a heater is the Garland "Hot-Blast" which can be found only at Aaron's. It is scientifically built to give you the benefit of every heat unit—nothing but smoke goes up the chimney.

Reduces Coal Bills

Almost half of the heating power of soft coal is in gases that escape from the coal when burning. The fundamental principle of the Garland "Hot-Blast" is to prevent those gases from escaping up the chimney until entirely burned. That is how the "Hot-Blast" raises the temperature and lowers the fuel bill—that is why the "Hot-Blast" has established new high standards for heating efficiency.

THE PUBLIC'S CLASSIFICATION OF WOMEN CITIZENS.

The dual figures of registration prove that the percentage of women in Connellsville who have taken all the steps necessary to qualify as voters is somewhat less than the average for the state at large. Those persons who have been following the assessments and registrations of the new voters closely estimate that only about fifty per cent of the women eligible to vote will avail themselves of the privilege.

That more have not done so is very probably due to many different reasons as women have for not taking part in the activities in which women participate. Quite a number have not at any time been in sympathy with the suffrage movement, adhering to the belief of their mothers that it was never intended that women should appropriate to themselves functions and privileges heretofore exercised by men only. Others have been so active in opposition that they have joined with the anti-suffrage organizations to defeat ratification of the 19th amendment. Having failed of their purpose, the women of this group are now without inclination or desire to identify themselves with those with whom they were recently in more or less spiritual conflict.

Still other women, true to the ideals of equality, are wholly up-to-date in their views and which have been strikingly noticeable upon many occasions. These women are not content with work together, but are desirous to assume a larger part of voters' duties, certain other women differentiated from now by social rank or position have acquired or been reassigned leadership in the task of preparing women for the exercise of franchise. A larger number, perhaps, have been wholly indifferent in the matter. Having looked upon voting as entirely outside their sphere of activity they have given no little study or thought to their changed status under the law that they are completely without interest in everything pertaining to the whole subject of equal suffrage.

In some instances women are known to have refrained from taking steps to qualify as electors because of the opposition of their husbands or other members of their families. To the credit of husbands it can be said that such instances are quite rare, the disposition of men generally being to accord women every assistance necessary to enable them to exercise their new privilege.

While no person will question the right of women to refuse to avail themselves of the right to vote if they so desire, it is to be regretted that more of this number have not come to realize the fact that they also have now become full citizens. In this matter, they are now citizens in precisely the same sense as men who are classified as good or poor citizens according as they take interest in elections or refrain from doing so.

Quite logically, therefore, the public will be impelled to make similar classifications of the women so long as a large percentage of them number remain indifferent to the important duty of taking part in the selection of good men to fill public offices.

It may have been a period when life in Connellsville was hundred times better than now, but even the most sanguine could hardly be tempted to return to it now.

The right to my "countrymen" to decide their fate in actions which concerned the welfare of our country and the welfare of the nation was the upshot of two years hard labor in Congress without compensation for my services.

The frost is on the punkin, but not the frooder is in the shoo.

What was a mean trick, the moon did not interfere with the last meeting of the grave to bunt their bitts and run the kowp up against the new players.

It seems from today Washington will be abegged in the aftermath of gloom following the great and solemn roundabout of the day before.

Regular baseball goes on trial to determine justice or nothing of consequence.

The negotiations in Connellsville are always in advance, but the season is past to my taste.

This world series is going to be a big matter for the mutual game.

Though poets sing of ancestors
And heroes travel by his name,

Burdened the man who took his place.

In somberness upon the land

And you will not see and understand

That living hearts are just as brave
As those long mouldered in the grave.

Yet few will pause to hear his song.

Dead glories sit on their cushioned thrones.

THE GREAT SHADOW

By
A. CONAN DOYLE

Author of
The Adventures of Sherlock Holmes

Copyright by A. Conan Doyle

On the third day afterward I was going up Connelville by the short cut, when I should see striding down but Jim himself. But he was neither man from the big kindly fellow who had supper his porridge with me the other morning. He had no collar nor tie, his vest was open, his hair matted, and his face mottled like a man who has drunk heavily overnight. He carried an oak stick and he dashed at the white bushes on either side of the path.

"Why, Jim!" said I.

But he looked at me in the way that I had often seen at school when the devil was strong in him, and when he knew that he was in the wrong and yet set his will to brazier it out. Not a word did he say, but he brushed past me on the narrow path, and swaggered on, still brandishing his stick and cutting at the bushes.

Ah well, I was not angry with him. I was sorry, very sorry, and that was all. Of course I was not so blind but that I could see how the matter stood. He was in love with Edie, and he could not bear to think that I should have her. Poor devil! how could he help it? Maybe I should have been the same. There was a time when I should have wondered that a girl could have turned a strong man's head like that, but I knew more about it now.

For a fortnight I saw nothing of Jim Horscroft, and then came the Thursday which was to change the whole current of my life.

I had woken early that day and, with a little thrill of joy, which is rare thing to feel when a man first opens his eyes. Edie had been kinder than usual the night before, and I had fallen asleep with the thought that maybe at last I had caught up rainbow, and swagged on, still brandishing his stick and cutting at the bushes.

But that was too much. I could not bear her in my own heart, and still less could I stand by and hear another man do it, not though it was my oldest friend.

"Don't you call names!" I cried.

"Ach! you sicken-me with your soft talk. I'll call her what she should be called."

"Will you, thought I, luring off my coat. "Look you here, Jim Horscroft. If you say another word against her, I'll kick it down your throat if you were as big as Borwick castle. Try me, and see!"

He peeled off his coat down to the elbows and then he slowly pulled it on again.

"Don't be such a fool, Jack," said he. "Two old friends mustn't fall out over such a—well, there, I won't say it. Well, by the Lord! if she hasn't nerve for ten!"

I looked around, and there she was, not twenty yards from us, looking as cool and easy and placid as we were hot and fevered.

"I was nearly home," said she, "when I saw you two boys very busy talking, so I came at the way back to know what it was about."

Horscroft took a run forward and caught her by the wrist. She gave a little squeak at the sight of his face, and then I remembered that if I mentioned it might be in time for her, for it was her custom to go out with the sunrise.

But I was too late. When I came to her door it was half open and the room empty. Well, thought I, at least I may meet her and have the homeward walk with her. I straightened up like a swallow, breathing in the air, keen morning air, and humming a bit as I went, until I came out a little short of breath, among the whins upon the top. Looking down the long slope of the farther side, I saw Cousin Edie as I had expected, and I saw Jim Horscroft walking by her side.

They were not far away, but too taken up with each other to see me. She was walking slowly, with the little pernicious look of her dainty head which I knew so well, casting her eyes away from him, and shooting out a word from time to time. He paced after her, looking down at her and bending his head in the eagerness of his talk. It was as if he said something, she stopped him, and he carried off his feet, pinched her up and kissed her again and again. At the sight I could neither cry out nor move, but stood with a heart of lead and the face of a dead man staring down at them. I saw her hand passed over his shoulder, and that his kisses were as welcome to her as ever mine had been.

Then he set her down again, and I found that this had been their parting, for indeed is another hundred paces they would have come in view of the upper windows of the house. She walked slowly away, with a wave back once or twice, and he stood looking after her. I waited until she was some way off, and then down I came, but so take up was he that I was within a hand's touch of him before he whisked round upon me. He tried to smile at his eyes met mine.

"I saw you," I gasped, and my throat had turned so dry that I spoke like a man with a quincey.

"Did you?" he said, and he gave a little whistle. "Well, on my life, Jack, I'm not sorry. I was thinking of coming up to West Inch this very day and meeting it out with you. May be it's better as it is."

"We've been a fine friend," said I. "Well, now, be reasonable, Jack," said he, sticking his hands into his pockets and rocking to and fro as he stood. "We're not going to have it stand. Look me in the eye and you see that I don't care now. I had met Edie—Miss Collier—that is—before I came that morning, and there were things which made me look upon her as free, and, thinking that, I let my mind dwell on her. Then you said she wasn't free but was promised to you, and that was the worst knock I've had for a time. It doesn't put me off, and I made a fool of myself for some days, and it's a mercy I'm not in Borwick jail. Then by chance, I met her again—ow my soul, Jack, it was chance for me—and when I spoke of you she laughed at the thought. It was cousin and cousin, she said, but as for her not being free, or you being more to her than a friend, it was fool's talk. So you see, Jack, I was not so much to blame after all, the more so as she promised that she would let you see her conduct that you were mistaken in thinking that you had any claim upon her. You must have noticed that she has hardly had a word for you for these last two weeks."

I laughed bitterly. "It was only last night," said I, "that she told me that I was the only man in all this earth that she could ever bring herself to love."

Jim Horscroft put out a shaking hand and laid it on my shoulder, while he pushed his face forward to look into my eyes.

"Jack Collier," said he, "I never knew you tell a lie. You are not trying to serve trick against trick, are you? Honest, now, between man and man."

"It's God's truth," said I.

He stood looking at me, and his face had set like that of a man who is having a hard fight with himself. It was a long two minutes before he spoke. "See here, Jack," said he, "this woman is fooling us both. Do you hear, man?—she's fooling us both. She loves you at West Inch, and she loves me on the Brackley, and in her devil's heart she cares not which blossoms for either of us. Let's join hands, man, and send the hell-fire-husky to the right."

But that was too much. I could not bear her in my own heart, and still less could I stand by and hear another man do it, not though it was my oldest friend.

"Don't you call names!" I cried.

"Ach! you sicken-me with your soft talk. I'll call her what she should be called."

"Will you, thought I, luring off my coat. "Look you here, Jim Horscroft. If you say another word against her, I'll kick it down your throat if you were as big as Borwick castle. Try me, and see!"

He peeled off his coat down to the elbows and then he slowly pulled it on again.

"Don't be such a fool, Jack," said he. "Two old friends mustn't fall out over such a—well, there, I won't say it. Well, by the Lord! if she hasn't nerve for ten!"

I looked around, and there she was, not twenty yards from us, looking as cool and easy and placid as we were hot and fevered.

"I was nearly home," said she, "when I saw you two boys very busy talking, so I came at the way back to know what it was about."

Horscroft took a run forward and caught her by the wrist. She gave a little squeak at the sight of his face, and then I remembered that if I mentioned it might be in time for her, for it was her custom to go out with the sunrise.

But I was too late. When I came to her door it was half open and the room empty. Well, thought I, at least I may meet her and have the homeward walk with her. I straightened up like a swallow, breathing in the air, keen morning air, and humming a bit as I went, until I came out a little short of breath, among the whins upon the top. Looking down the long slope of the farther side, I saw Cousin Edie as I had expected, and I saw Jim Horscroft walking by her side.

They were not far away, but too taken up with each other to see me. She was walking slowly, with the little pernicious look of her dainty head which I knew so well, casting her eyes away from him, and shooting out a word from time to time. He paced after her, looking down at her and bending his head in the eagerness of his talk. It was as if he said something, she stopped him, and he carried off his feet, pinched her up and kissed her again and again. At the sight I could neither cry out nor move, but stood with a heart of lead and the face of a dead man staring down at them. I saw her hand passed over his shoulder, and that his kisses were as welcome to her as ever mine had been.

Then he set her down again, and I found that this had been their parting, for indeed is another hundred paces they would have come in view of the upper windows of the house. She walked slowly away, with a wave back once or twice, and he stood looking after her. I waited until she was some way off, and then down I came, but so take up was he that I was within a hand's touch of him before he whisked round upon me. He tried to smile at his eyes met mine.

"I saw you," I gasped, and my throat had turned so dry that I spoke like a man with a quincey.

"Did you?" he said, and he gave a little whistle. "Well, on my life, Jack, I'm not sorry. I was thinking of coming up to West Inch this very day and meeting it out with you. May be it's better as it is."

"We've been a fine friend," said I. "Well, now, be reasonable, Jack," said he, sticking his hands into his pockets and rocking to and fro as he stood. "We're not going to have it stand. Look me in the eye and you see that I don't care now. I had met Edie—Miss Collier—that is—before I came that morning, and there were things which made me look upon her as free, and, thinking that, I let my mind dwell on her. Then you said she wasn't free but was promised to you, and that was the worst knock I've had for a time. It doesn't put me off, and I made a fool of myself for some days, and it's a mercy I'm not in Borwick jail. Then by chance, I met her again—ow my soul, Jack, it was chance for me—and when I spoke

"I suffered for several years from nervous breakdowns, and finally had got so low they told me I was no use. There was no strength left to work on and doctor had no hopes for six weeks, grew steadily worse and I just breathed and that was all. Our dentist recommended Hypo-Cod so highly I decided to take it on a fortior chance anyway."

"Before I had finished the first bottle I could feel a change coming over me. I started to get an appetite and feel a little stronger. I kept on taking it until three bottles were gone. I now do a great deal of work every day and feel fine. We live on a small farm and have cows, pigs and 65 little hens besides lots of chickens and I tend to all of these besides helping in the garden and doing my own housework. I certainly think that is wonderful on three bottles of any tonic. Edie's Hypo-Cod is fine. My daughter was sick not long ago and she also took two bottles and is feeling as fine as ever today. I want everyone who is rundown and tired out to try this wonderful medicine and get relief," declared Mrs. J. P. Butz, R. F. D. No. 2, Box 21, Latrobe, Pa.

Dear reader:oughs that get hold of one in Autumn should be stopped now or they may continue all winter. Mrs. Wm. F. Davis, R. F. D. 1, Short Creek, Pa., writes: "Poley's Honey and Turpentine can stop them from ever having a new hair growth of any kind. It is a powerful remedy. Take a pint of honey and a pint of turpentine and mix them together. Boil this mixture over a slow fire for 15 minutes. Strain it and add a pint of cold water. Take a spoonful of this mixture three times a day. It will stop all new hair growth." This is a good remedy.

"RESPECTABLE BY PROXY"—A romantic comedy, with Sylvia Bromley in the leading role, is today's feature attraction.

"Respectable by Proxy" is sheer romance with tobacco sauce added to give it a wholesome flavor. Every body apparently is interested in show girls and their reputations. This drama places them in an accurate brush and brings in an unique situation in which a strong-headed young blade from an aristocratic family marries a show girl, separates from her and comes back home to find another girl masquerading as his wife. The story is too good to tell, and we can heartily recommend "Respectable by Proxy" as distinctive entertainment with piquant pizazz to give it voice, but not too much to put it in the so-called sex drama class. It is entertainment well produced and acted.

THE SOISSON.

A CHORUS/GIRL'S ROMANCE—Starred Viole Dunn is being shown today. The most interesting feature of the production is the originality of the character of the Yale student Horace Taibor, with which pretty Maclie, the most attractive and most expert shaker of the shimmy in the 11 o'clock Miss Dunn is unusually winning as she follows the lead of Horace's associates and lures the unsuspecting bookworm to his first kiss, and perhaps her charm is even more marked in the later scenes of the play when she becomes a wife and mother. The picture treats of the love story of two young couple and is one of the best in which Miss Dunn has ever appeared. Gareth Hughes, as Horace Taibor gives an excellent impersonation. The cast is a competent one throughout and the picture is having a very successful run.

Mrs W. Rammage 710 McCormick avenue, says "I have found Doan's Kidney Pills to be a very good remedy. Several years ago I was troubled in spells with bad backaches. My back would pain constantly day and night and sharp, cutting pains would bother me when I stooped over. At such times I could hardly straighten up. My kidneys were also in bad shape and acted poorly. I got them easily and was troubled with headaches and dizziness. The last time I had an attack I used two boxes of Doan's Kidney Pills from Clarke's Drug Store and they cured me at once. It is now several years since I have had any sign of this trouble and I give the credit to Doans."

BROOKLYN MAKES FIRST SCORES IN TODAY'S CONTEST

Dodgers Are Leading American Champions at Close of East Half of Fifth.

SCORE THEN STANDS 2-0

Baltimore's National League Warriors Score in Opening Inning; Then Add Another Tally While Indians Still Trail Along Without Getting a Run.

By Associated Press.

EBBETS FIELD, BROOKLYN, Oct. 6.—Brooklyn started out after a victory today. In the last half of the fifth inning the score stood at 2-0.

The first run was made in the opening frame.

EBBETS FIELD, Oct. 6.—The Cleveland Indians, with one Brooklyn scalp dangling at their belts, went on the war-path again today to tomahawk the National leaders in the second encounter. Over 20,000 came out to see the fray.

A wind-blown ball was the cause of our downfall yesterday," said Manager Robinson of the Brooklyns. "With an even break on his new club will show the way to victory. Speaker ruined our ball game with his catches in centerfield. I think I'll tell our fellows to hit the ball over the fence when you tell Speaker do his worst. I am inclined to use Grimes in the box to day."

This Speaker believes that the edge now lies with his American league pennant winners in the series.

"We have looked the Brooklyns over and my theory is that they can take the majority of the games," said Speaker today. "Brooklyn has a fine ball club, make no mistake, and I have my trouble to find pitchers to beat them in a long series."

The chill of yesterday's defeat and a cold night did not freeze the enthusiasm of the fans who came early today. Spectators seeking seats in the unreserved stand began to form in line two hours before sunrise and entered and shook in the arctic blast that came out of the north. A ground-keeper making his rounds at midnight heard a heavy shooe behind the score-board in left field. He promptly unfastened four men who had hidden in the park after yesterday's game and were taking a rest in a nest of newspapers back of the score-board.

The wind had dried out the playing field so that the ground keepers had to spray it with water to keep down the dust. Those coming early were bundled in heavy overcoats while the players were jacketed in heavy sweaters except a few who donned the wind.

NEW YORK, Oct. 6.—With one victory to their credit in the world series of 1920, the Cleveland Indians, champions of the American league, depending upon their pitching ace Jim Bagby, were confident today of making it two straight over Brooklyn. On the other hand Manager Robinson and his players were determined to reverse the result.

Cleveland's success in holding the Superbas to five hits made it appear certain Speaker would pitch Bagby today. The pitching selection for Brooklyn was a problem which Manager Robinson had to contend with and it was certain who would get the assignment. The indications pointed to Grimes.

According to reports from betting centers there is not nearly so much betting interest in the series as in former years. Cleveland continued to rule a slight favorite to win the series, the odds remaining at 6-5. Brooklyn supporters insisted upon 7-5.

CLEVELAND, Oct. 6.—Lines began to form at American League park here before the booths opened this morning to distribute reserve seats to those lucky enough to receive allocations. Never before has the city been so wild over baseball. The enthusiasm over the Indians' winning the first pennant since Cleveland has had organized ball 42 years, was insignificant compared with that shown over the tribes' victory yesterday. Confidence was expressed by the fans that their favorites would make it two straight.

MARION, Oct. 6.—Senator Harding, riding on a special train and accompanied by Mrs. Harding and a corps of newspapermen, left Marion this morning for Chicago.

With his departure from Marion today for the Middle West Senator Harding began a speech making trip which will keep him from home almost continuously until late October.

The present trip will take him through Indiana, Illinois, Iowa, Nebraska, Missouri and Oklahoma and he will never consent to the 21 points of his membership, but many new ones on.

The Fayette County chapter is anxious to correct this erroneous opinion that seems to prevail, and, as its present membership in the county numbers 25,000, it feels that all members have a right to know, and that many members are interested in the activities that are being carried on. This is especially true in view of the coming Fourth Red Cross Roll Call, November 25, as it is hoped that not only all present members will renew their membership, but many new ones on.

RIGA, Oct. 6.—The Russo-Polish armistice negotiations are being speedily concluded but the Lithuanian-Polish situation seems to have become more acute. It is said Lithuanian troops are fighting alongside Bolshevik troops.

Why We Can Sell You
Over a Quart of Milk for Less Than
a Bottle of Milk Costs

YOU know that when you open a tin of Every Day Milk and add the water we have taken out, you get a good deal more than a quart of the richest country milk you have ever tasted.

Did you ever wonder how we can sell that extra amount of Grade A milk for less than a bottle of milk costs?

MILK, you know, doesn't cost as much on the farm as in the city. But when it has to be brought many miles by railroad to you—when it has to be kept cold for a whole day in big travelling ice boxes—when it has to be watched to make sure it doesn't sour—when it has to be delivered at your door in expensive glass bottles before you wake up—all that brings up the price.

Compare this expensive way with the economical Every Day way. Right near the farm we take out most of the useless water and seal the fresh rich milk in tins—you don't pay railroad fares for water or for ice—and that's how Every Day Milk can come to you with all its rich goodness—sterilized, pure as sunshine—for less money than bottled milk.

Stop wasting money on old-fashioned milk when you can get Every Day—the modern milk. Don't be the last woman in your town to save money on your milk bills. Your Every Day is waiting for you at your grocer's.

A rare and delicious syrup at a moderate price. Don't worry about the high price of maple syrup. Of special interest to every mother

When you wonder how the new Karo Maple gets its delicious tang of rich maple syrup remember—

The makers of Karo Maple use annually over a thousand tons of the purest and best flavored maple sugar from the finest maple groves in Vermont and Canada.

This is one reason why over five million cans of Karo Maple were purchased by American housewives last year.

This is a greater sale, by far, than any kind of maple syrup offered.

The moderate price of Karo Maple is also an attraction—it costs less than any other syrup of approaching quality and flavor.

Go to your grocer today and get a can of Karo Maple, in the GREEN CAN.

Compare it for price and flavor with other maple syrups. If you are not satisfied your grocer will give you money back.

tooth paste,
keeps teeth clean AND GUMS HEALTHY.

Keeping the gums healthy and the mouth sweet is very important health; more teeth are lost through the loosening of the tissue that holds the teeth in place than from decay.

Dental science to-day demands that a tooth paste must keep the mouth healthy as well as clean the teeth.

Sonreco was formulated to meet this requirement. Hundreds of dentists are prescribing and using Sonreco because they have found that it does measure up to that standard.

SONRECO IS A WONDERFUL CLEANSER.

In addition to its remedial properties Sonreco is a wonderful cleanser; acts directly on the mucin film, the basis of tartar; leaves the mouth cool and clean-feeling. As soon as one has exposed it—Sonreco gives one a new idea on mouth cleanliness.

Get a tube to-day at your druggist or toilet counter—enjoy the healthy, cleanly feeling it gives your mouth and gums. Notice how brilliantly white Sonreco makes your teeth. It performs this two-fold service for you, and yet costs no more than the ordinary, old-fashioned tooth paste.

BAREFOOT METHODS IN THE NATIONAL CAMPAIGN.

The farther they go in their desperate efforts to create the impression that there is a break between Senator Harding and Senators Johnson and Borah on Republican campaign issues,
the worse the Democrats are faring.
Daily events, including unceasing activity of the two distinguished western statesmen in behalf of the ticket, give "denial" to the lie the Democrats are striving to spread.

Senator Johnson in California and Senator Borah in New England are delivering broadsides that are sweeping the enemies of truth and their feet and at the same time proclaiming their loyalty to the head of the Republican ticket. In fact, even the Democrats cannot mislead them. For instance, Teller is looking up as a doubtful factor. Cox Army should head the warning and start its counter-attack to Tail's End.

Will Our Soldier Boys Vote The Democratic Ticket?

The Marion Star.

In comparison with the complete accord between those leaders and the heads of the Republican ticket, the divergence of views and attitude between President Wilson and Governor Cox provide paramount issue of the Democratic campaign point pure clarity. A break in the ranks of the Democrats than in the ranks of the Republicans.

With President Wilson retreating, in his second appeal to my countrymen, I am demand for acceptance of his unpublished edition of the league covenant and Governor Cox declaring on the stump that he is willing to accept any old kind of pacification if it will help him to win, there is so wide a difference that the few weeks between now and election will not suffice to bring about a close of the Democratic breach, no matter how skillfully it may meantime be camouflaged.

The fact that there is absolute agreement between Republicans and that they are presenting an unbroken front and marshalling their forces in solid array to prevent a compromise on the principle of American sovereignty makes it necessary for the Democrats to resort, in their national campaign to the Barefoot methods of misrepresentation so persistently practiced locally. In neither case will the purpose be accomplished.
Instead, voters will flock to the Republican standard in proportion as the desperation of the Democrats increases.

WHY DEMOCRATS ARE SUPPORTING HARDING.

Thoughtful Democrats throughout the country, who have long since realized the danger involved in the election of any candidate committed to the policy obstinately advocated by President Wilson, have determined that the only course to pursue is to support Senator Harding for the president. Not all of such Democrats are politically inclined; their intention, or identifying themselves with the Democratic Harding club which is acquiring a large membership in various parts of the country. But here and there men who have formerly been prominent in the councils of the Democratic party are openly declaring their intentions of voting for the Republican candidate.

American Democrats, thus, declaiming for Senator Harding, are more widely known than Major Bedderick Crowell, a warm admirer of President Wilson during the early months of the war, and for a long time a responsible official of the Administration, often serving as acting secretary of state during Secretary Baker's absences in Europe and elsewhere. He has not only strongly declared himself for Harding and Coolidge, but also for the election of a Republican Congress. In a statement announcing his intentions Major Crowell was thus clearly set forth his reasons for change of party allegiance:

"The Democratic party has no monopoly on the League. Indeed, the League has been adopted by the majority of the Senate. The fact that 75 per cent of the Senate were in favor of it, does not disqualify it from being a good cause. The Democrats, many prominent Democrats having consistently opposed it.
It seems evident that Governor Cox is not sincere in his opposition to the League.
Senator Harding is wholly convinced on the subject. World opinion is against us, and we must do our best to secure the right cause when the next election comes. I therefore favor the Republican ticket. All the leading Democrats, Coolidge, Harding, and Coolidge, and a majority of the upper and lower house members, are now in the League."

Editor & GuestA DAY AND A BOOK.

Old Brown was one who used to say:
"Much like a book is every day—
A book you want to read clear through."

And find just what its people are;

Who story starts and comes out,

But you must know how turns out;

Appears to lose his sweetheart's hand,

In the closing pages, too.

Find happiness and marriage, too."

I like his notion. Every day

I start a story just that way.

And as I stand before my door,

I wonder just what's in store.

What's in store for me, mine,

Before I reach the closing line?

What adventures shall I make?

What different road shall I take?

Though the weather's bad, bad,

I trust the end will be glad.

Now here's a new book just begun,

This morning I went to the corner Roll

By voting right on November 2, don't forget that the Red Cross Roll Call comes the following week.

With interest the tale is filled,

Men dream 'em tall, and plan

And even with the human race

Some wondrous change is taking place.

I want to live this grand day through,

To learn, where now I stand in doubt,

Just how the prophet's word will come

To read this book of joys and woes,

And know the story to close.

A Happy Family

Everett, Pa.—The length of time that we have used Dr. Pierce's medicines I believe will testify to the fact that they have entire satisfaction. I think I am safe in saying that we have used Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets for 35 years and have found them superior to all other medicines as a "Pleasant Remedy." We always found them mild in their operation but very effective. I have also used Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery off and on for 20 years. That is I am living today I attribute to the "Golden Medical Discovery." My daughters as well as my sons have also made liberal use of it with great benefit to themselves.

"We would find it almost impossible to get along without Dr. Pierce's medicines. Our doctor will have a hard, almost negligible task. We should be pleased at any answer you may have to our query." MRS. M. MYERS, Everett, Pa.

DECLARES IT WAS SURPRISE OF LIFE

I Didn't Think Taniac Could Help Him But It Well for First Time in Three Years.

"Yes sir, for the first time in three years I can sit down and eat a good meal without suffering an bad effects and it's Taniac and nothing else that has given me such fine health," his statement made recently by C. G. Ward, well-known insurance agent residing at 207 Dartmouth street, Volk, Va.

"I had a chronic case of indigestion that had been pulling me down so long it looked like I would never be well again. Everything I ate hurt me and finally I had to give up all solid food and live entirely on liquid diet. I would break up with gas until I felt as tight as a drum and there was a burning like fire in my stomach. The gas would press around my heart and cause sharp pains in my chest that couldn't have hurt worse if I had been struck with a dagger. I had awful pains all through my stomach in fact I was simply in misery from morning till night. I tried medicines dieting and everything else I knew of and even went back to the old-fashioned remedies that people told me about, but in spite of it all I grew worse instead of better.

"When I heard about Taniac I was afraid it couldn't help me but I decided to try it just to be taking something else. So I bought a bottle and it's a fact, I don't believe I ever received a bigger surprise in my life. Why in just a few days the gas quit forming on my stomach and the pains and burnings began to ease up. I kept right on improving until now I don't believe my stomach was ever before in better condition. It makes no difference what I eat it all tastes good and agrees with me. I am enjoying the very best of health and feel built up in every way. I praise Taniac above all medicines and I am glad to be telling somebody about what it's done for me."

Last Night's Dreams —What They Mean

DID YOU DREAM OF FLYING?

TO DREAM that one is flying is one of the commonest or standard dreams of the scientists. It may foreshadow itself in many ways, the kind of dream to everybody. According to Professor Strughold of Lufthansa, the highflier dream investigations, this dream equation of flying is the result of the dream-mimic transit of the dreamer from the skin sensations of the cheat have been reduced to instead of sleep. This theory however is rejected by other scientists for what seems very good reasons—too long to relate here. Doctor Fardon of Vienna and some others interpret the flying dream as erotic dream symbol.

Fate

There has always been a passionate protest in favor of the race against that element in life which often fate the play upon unexpected natures of those events accidents calamities which are beyond human control. These arbitrary happenings often tragic in their consequence often seem wholly irrational, they have at times a touch of tragedy. In many cases one is tempted to proximity fate as a malignant spirit students and with malicious designs seeking ways ofounding, inflicting harm, and punishing the most sensitive souls. There have been cases completely distorted and twisted that it has seemed as if the gods are jealous of us and anxious to rob the great rewards of those events and the noblest achievements of their fruits.

CLEVELAND WINS FIRST WORLD SERIES GAME OF 1920 FROM DODGERS, 3-1

Score in Second and Fourth Innings; Clevelands Effective, Has Good Support

H. S. FOOTBALL NOTES

By Associated Press
NEW YORK, Oct. 6.—The Cleveland American League club decisively defeated the Brooklyn Nationals by the score of 3 to 1 in the initial game of the 1920 world series here yesterday afternoon.

The victory, which was far more impressive than the score would appear to indicate, was won by perfect team play, sparkling with brilliant individual work on the part of the Indians, which made the efforts of the Superbas dull by comparison.

Cleveland got the jump on Brooklyn by scoring two runs in the second inning. Burns, the first man up, had a high fly, which came down where Konetchy was standing. The wind caught the ball and Konetchy jogged a step forward, then backward, then sideways, and in the end the ball dropped safely to the ground. It went as a single.

Konetchy picked up the ball and threw it second to head off Burns, but no one was there to receive the throw, and the ball went to left field. Burns meanwhile completing the circuit for the first run. After Gardner had been disposed of at first, Wood drew a pass and went to third on Sewall's single to right center. Wood then "steered" O'Neill's double down the left-field line.

In the fourth inning—with one out, Joe Wood doubled to left center and remained at the midway when Sewell flied to Myers. Wood scored on O'Neill's double to right.

HIGH SCHOOL PREPARING FOR GAME WITH PEABODY

Coach Rupp worked with his offense last night at Fayette Field in order to make the team a greater scoring machine by Saturday than it was against Johnstown. Peabody, the next attraction, is a Pittsburgh city high school, and generally these teams are not rated as high as some of the teams in such cities as Johnstown, Greensburg and this place.

There is no doubt, however, that Peabody is strong and the local team is right down to "brass tacks" to get all the advantages they can this week.

Some of the new equipment was handed out last night and the men settled into the play in earnest.

Melnick, who underwent a throat operation, will not be in the game Saturday. He will report for practice next week.

DISLIKES JEERING OF FANS

Ivan Olson, Peppy Dodger Shortstop, Resorts to Unique Method of Avoiding Criticism.

Ivan Olson, the peppery shortstop of the pennant-chasing Dodgers, sprang something new in the line of comedy in a game with the Pirates. Olson had been guilty of several misdeeds during recent games and was being ridden unmercifully by the fans. The leers did not help him resume his normal stetle, so he decided to equip himself so that he could not hear the comment from the stands if he bobbed. The Three-way Dependability of Atlantic Gasoline

Gasoline! In the bright lexicon of use "dependability" is a grand old word. And with Atlantic it is a handle that fits three ways:—on Service, on Quality, and on Performance.

No matter where you are—anywhere in the great states covered by The Atlantic Refining Company's vast distributing system—you can depend on being able to obtain Atlantic Gasoline. For not far ahead, along the road you are traveling, there's sure to be a Red Pump or a sign which says Atlantic. That's service!

No matter where you buy Atlantic, you can depend on getting a gasoline unequalled for purity, volatility and refinement—for scientific correctness—driving power-mileage. That's quality!

And no matter where or when you use Atlantic, you can depend on its making good. For Atlantic has uniformity. And range. It delivers to the utmost—always—whether operating in the rarified atmosphere of the mountains or in the heavy air of the lowlands.

Simply see that your carburetor and Atlantic are properly introduced and they'll work together through thick and thin—under every altitude, temperature, humidity, speed and load condition. That's performance!

CHAPTER V.

The Man From the Sea.

Well, I was never one to sit groaning over a cracked pot; if it cannot be mended, then it is the part of a man to say no more of it. For weeks I had an aching heart; indeed, it is a little worse now, after all these years and a happy marriage, when I think of it. But I kept a brave face on me, and above all I did as I had promised "Dad," on the hillsides. I was a brother to her, and no more, though there were times when I had to put a curb upon myself.

For the most part she and Jim were happy enough. It was all over the countryside that they were to be married when he had passed his degree, and he would come up to West India four nights a week to sit with us. My folks were pleased enough about it, and I was pleased, too.

We used to take long rambles together, Jim and I, and it is about one of those that I now want to tell you. We had passed over Bramston Heath and round the clump of trees which screens the house of Major Elliot from the sea wind. It was spring, and the year was a fervid one, so that the trees were well leaved by the end of April. It was as warm on a summer day, and we were the more surprised when we saw a huge fire roaring upon the grass plat before the sailor's door. There was a single tree in it, and the flames were spouting up as high as the bedroom windows. Jim and I stood staring; but we stared the more when out came the major, with a great quart pot in his hand, and at his heels his old sister, who kept house for him, and two of the maids, and all four began capering about the fire. He was a drowsy, quiet man, as all the country knew; and here he was, like Old Nick at the carillon, dancing, shouting, roundabout, waving his hands above his head. We both set off running, and Jim waved the more when he saw us coming.

"Peace!" he roared. "Huzza, boys! Peace!"

And at that we both fled to dancing and shouting too, for it had been such a weary war, as far back as we could remember, and the shadow had lain so long over us that it was wondrous to feel that it was lifted. Indeed it was "no" much to believe, but the major laughed our doubts to scorn.

"Aye, aye, it is true," he cried, stopping with his hand to his side. "The allies have got Paris. Boney has thrown up the sponge, and his people are all swearing allegiance to Louis XVII."

"And the emperor?" I asked; "will there be space him?"

"There's some talk of sending him to Elba, where he'll be out of mischiefs' way. But his officers—there are some of them who will not get off scot-free. Some deeds have been done these last twenty years that have not been forgotten. There are a few old scores to be settled. But it's peace, peace," and away he went once more with his great thumper, hopping round his bonfire.

Well, we stayed some time with the major, and then away we went down to the beach. Jim and I, talking about this great news, and all, that would come of it. How little did Jim know at that moment, as he strode along by my side so full of health and of spirits, that he had reached the extreme summit of life, and that from that hour all would in truth be upon the downward slope.

There was a little haze out to sea, for it had been very misty in the early morning, though the sun had thinned it. As we looked seaward we suddenly saw the sail of a small boat break out through the fog and come bobbing along toward the land. A single man was seated in the sheets, and she yawned as she ran, as though he were of two minds whether to reach her or no. At last, determined, it may be by our presence, he made straight for us, and had grazed upon the shingle at our very feet. He dropped his sail, climbed out, and pulled his boat up onto the beach.

"I'm afraid that I'm dead," said he, turning round and facing us.

He was a man somewhat above middle height, but exceedingly thin, well dressed in a suit of brown with brass buttons, and he wore high boots, which were all roughened and dulled by the sea water. His face and hands were so dark that he might have been a Spaniard, but as he raised his hat to us we saw that the upper part of his brow was quite white, and that it was from without that he had his swariness. He looked from one to the other of us, and his gray eyes had something in them which I had never seen before. You could read the question, "But there seemed to be a menace at the back of it, as if the answer were a right and not a favor." "Great Britain?" he asked again, with a quick tap of his foot on the shingle.

quick, suspicious glance at us. "What have I been doing?" he asked. "I've been off my head. Take no notice of anything I may have said. I have been shouting."

"You shouted just before you fell."

"I told him, though it bore little meaning to my mind. He looked sharply at us, and then he shrugged his shoulders.

"It's the words of a song," said he. "Well, the question is, what am I to do now? I didn't think I was so weak. Where did you get the water?"

I pointed towards the burn, and he staggered off to the bank. There he lay down upon his face, and he drank, until I thought he would never have done. At last he got up with a long sigh and wiped his mustache with his sleeve.

"That's better," said he. "Have you any food?"

I had crammed two bits of oatcake into my pocket when I left home, and these he crushed into his mouth and swallowed. Then he squared his shoulders, puffed out his chest, and patted his ribs with the flat of his hands.

"I am sure that I owe you an apology," said he. "You have been very kind to a stranger. But I see that you have had occasion to open that bag."

"Danderine" freshens your youth, strengthens dandruff and falling hair. "Danderine" stimulates "beauty-tonic". Given to you in a glass bottle of delightful thickness and abundant thickness. All druggists' Adv.

"Tea," said I, while Jim burst out laughing.

"England? Scotland?" "Scotland. It's England, pass me the trees."

"Bon! I know where I am now. I've been in a fog without a compass for a month or two days, and I didn't think I was ever to see land again."

"He spoke English glibly enough, but with some strange turn of speech from time to time."

"Where did you come from, then?" asked Jim.

"I was in a ship that was wrecked," said he shortly. "What is the town down yonder?"

"It's Berwick."

"Ah, well, I must get stronger before I can go further." He turned toward the boat, and as he did so he gave a lurch, and would have fallen, had he not caught the prow. On this he seated himself, and looked round him with a face that was flushed and two eyes that blazed like a wild beast's.

"Voltegues de la Garde!" he roared, a voice like a trumpet-call, and then again, "Voltegues de la Garde!" He waved his hat above his head, and suddenly pitching forward, upon his face on the sand, he lay all huddled into a little brown heap.

Jim Horaceoff and I stood and stared at each other. The coming of the boat had been so strange, and his manner so strange, and his language so strange, that we both took him by the shoulders and turned him upon his back. His lips were bloodless, and his breath would scarce shake a feather.

"He's dying, Jim," I cried.

"Aye, for want of food and water. There's not a drop or a crumb in the boat. Maybe there's something in the bag."

"It is too long," said he. "Twice before I have been for two days, but never quite so long in this. Well, I shall leave my boat here, and see whether I can get lodgings in any of these little gray houses up on the hillsides. Why is that great fire burning over yonder?"

"It is one of our neighbors who has served against the French. He is rejoicing because peace has been declared."

"Oh! you have a neighbor who has served, then? I am glad, for I, too, have been a little soldiering here and there." He did not look glad, but he drew his brows down over his keen eyes.

"And today's Thursday. You have been three days without bite or sup."

"It is too long," said he. "Twice before I have been for two days, but never quite so long in this. Well, I shall leave my boat here, and see whether I can get lodgings in any of these little gray houses up on the hillsides. Why is that great fire burning over yonder?"

have been a little soldiering here and there." He did not look glad, but he drew his brows down over his keen eyes.

"You are French, are you not?" I asked, as we all walked up the hill together, he with his black bag in his hand, and his long blue cloak slung over his shoulder.

RHEUMATISM

A Remarkable Home Treatment
Given by One Who Had It.

In the Spring of 1923 I was attacked by Malaria and Inflammatory Rheumatism. I suffered as only those who have had it can understand, and I tried remedy after remedy, and doctor after doctor, but such relief as I received was temporary. Finally, I found a remedy that cured me completely, and it has never returned. I have given it to a number who were seriously afflicted and even bedridden with rheumatism, and every one of them 40 to 80 years old, and mostly were the same age as my own case.

I want every sufferer from any form of rheumatic trouble to try this simple treatment. You don't need a costly simply mail your name and address and I will send it free to you. After you have used it for a month you will find that long-continued means of controlling your rheumatism, you may name the place or it, one dollar, but understand I do not want your name published. If you are really satisfied to send it, don't that fair? Why suffer my longer when relief is thus offered you now? Do it today, and profit today.

much in this tire business for us.

III.

The less a man has to spend on motoring, the more important it is that his tires should be of first quality.

Any tire is not good enough for the small car owner. He wants a tire that will give him just as much for his money in the small size as the big car man gets for his money in the large size.

In thinking over what kind of tires we would represent in this community we tried to put ourselves in the place of the car owner. And we believe we hit it exactly when we selected U. S.

OAL OPERATORS STRIVE TO PREVENT WINTER SHORTAGE

In Do So If Weekly Output Averages 12,000,000 Tons to Dec. 1.

RAILROADS WILL ASSIST

(Living Up to the Car Service Required to Move the Tonnage; Danger Past in New England But the Northwest and Other Sections Still Short)

WASHINGTON, Sept. 30.—Every effort is being put forth by the bituminous coal operators of the country to attain a weekly output of over 12,000,000 tons of soft coal from now until December 1, says a statement of the National Coal Association, so as to stave off the possibility of a shortage anywhere in the country during the winter. The goal of 12,000,000 tons a week was fixed by the operators early in the summer, but up to this time it has not been reached because of the difficulty of car supply at the mines. No doubt exists in the minds of operators who have been handling the shortage crisis during the last four months that the winter wants of the country will be met. But to accomplish this they agree that production must be stimulated through improved car service at the mines. This matter has been impressed upon the railroad executives within the last few days in the assurance that the railroads will live up to the requirements put upon them.

With production running at over 1,000,000 tons a week the operators estimate that the existing deficiency due to under-production can be made up soon after December 1. To follow that output, they say would fulfill the program by which the coal shortage must be overcome.

That the operators easily can attain an output of 12,000,000 tons a week, with sufficient car supply is a demonstrated fact. During October of last year preceding the miners' strike reduction averaged 22,000,750 tons a week. In the week of October 26 of this year 22,000,000 tons were produced. The highest production for any week during the present strike period was 22,000,000 during the week of August 14. The average for the last two months has been approximately 10,000,000 tons a week.

To insure the winter supply of coal in the Northwest, where the situation is even particularly serious, the railroad executives have promised to expedite the movement of open-top cars, under Service Order No. 10 of the Interstate Commerce Commission, so as to provide the 4,000 cars a week carrying 12,000,000 tons to the Great Lakes, for trans-shipment to Lakeside. This movement, it is agreed, must be kept up until the close of navigation if householders in the Northwest are to be saved from extreme hardship and industries are not to be shut down, at least for part time.

Through the cooperation of operators, the railroads and distributors, the New England situation has been cleared up so that danger of a coal famine this winter no longer exists. Coal is at the disposal of New England distributors to supply the immediate wants of New England consumers. The outstanding difficulty with the New England situation at this time is lack of railroad fuel for storage for the winter's use. This is now being straightened out.

The railroads throughout the country will be materially aided in their work to provide transportation for the requisite weekly output of coal if shippers will see that coal cars are promptly unloaded, cleaned back to the mines, and off-loaded. Also the transportation situation will be appreciably improved if the Interstate Commerce Commission's order, restricting the use of open-top cars in the movement of coal, is rigidly enforced. At this time thousands of cars which ought to be carrying coal are being used to haul other commodities.

Householders may feel entitled to expect that, by realizing any panicky tendency to hoard coal within the next few weeks, they will not suffer for want of supply during the winter. Just as soon as the Northwest situation is cleared up, there will be enough coal released from that movement to make up any deficiencies.
